 1. Senator Pritchard: with new record of student enrollment, what steps does ISU take to maintain the balance of university growth and its academic quality?
 - a. Our 4-year consecutive highest student enrollment is a challenging, yet good problem to have. The major challenges involve class and lab space and class sizes. ISU is a member of elite Association of American Universities group (www.aau.edu). As President Leath's expressed earlier, ISU aims to increase graduate student body by 2,000 students, we hope that our new collaborations with the other academic institutions will result in more publications, bring in more grants, and thus attracting more students. All these factors will help us to maintain if not improve the quality of research we do here. Overall, ISU is a strong brand. We are known for a high-quality research and affordable tuition. While we continue to grow, we will work to sustain the quality of this institution.

2. Senator Den Herder: Vet Med has doubled its graduation class since 2009 and we see how this negatively affects the quality of our program. What measures can be taken to prevent this?
 - a. Start locally. Talk to your department chair first. Ask him/her to clarify what measures have been taken and ask why. If you see no progress, come and see me. I will be glad to serve as the link in this dialogue. But I strongly urge you to talk to your department chair first.

- b. Senator Zenko, "Omicron Delta Kappa: An Opportunity for Iowa State"
 - i. What is Omicron Delta Kappa? It is first collegiate society to honor leadership and service on a national scale (1914).
 - ii. Currently has 300,000 members
 - iii. Benefits to be ODK member involve: networking opportunities, scholarships and awards, recognition, leadership initiative development, opportunities for a lifetime service
 - iv. What we need now: 10-15 qualified students (top 35% of class, leadership experience) and 4-5 faculty/staff. Members. Select officers and obtain institutional recognition.
